Upcoming Membership Meetings

We meet at 1:30 p.m. in the Ryerson Auditorium of the Grand Rapids Public Library on the first Saturday of the month, September through June. Should the first Saturday fall on a holiday weekend, another day will be scheduled. Unless a special program, each meeting has a one-hour lecture on a genealogy related subject by a knowledgeable speaker. Books and charts are sold at our meetings and a "Hospitality Hour" follows.

All meetings are free and open to the public

Saturday, June 11, 1:30 p.m.
Presenter: Janet Sheeres

Topic: The First Dutch Female Saints to Zion: 1853-1869

In the summer of 1847 Dutch immigrants were flooding into West Michigan and Iowa. In that same summer Latter-day Saints were arriving in Utah. Many of these Mormon travelers were native-born Americans but among them were also many emigrants from European countries. Were there any women from the Netherlands on these wagon-trains? Who were they and how were they persuaded that Utah should be their destination? What did they experience on the trail, and once they arrived in Zion? Janet Sjaarda Sheeres has researched the history of Dutch immigrants women who settled in Dutch colonies, but now she has delved into the lives of the first Dutch immigrant women who made the journey to Utah. Join us for the trip.

Janet Sjaarda Sheeres is an independent scholar, genealogist, and freelance author who researches and writes on the subject of family, church, and Dutch emigration/immigration history. Since she began writing about thirty years ago she has published three books, over 80 articles in various national and international historical and genealogical journals. Janet was born in the Netherlands, speaks fluent Dutch.

Genealogy Classes

Researching Death Records

Saturday, June 11, Noon – 1:00 p.m.
In person class at the GRPL, in the VanderVeen Room on the Family History floor

With death & obituary records, you can uncover details like:

- Time and location of death
- Cause of death
- Birth information
- Next of kin and family origins

These valuable death records are rich in genealogical information. Let’s find out what information we can dig up on our ancestors.

Ancestry.com DNA updates

The latest update at Ancestry.com for DNA results contains a new feature. It is called “ethnicity inheritance”. Your parents each contributed half of your DNA. Now, you can see which ethnicities you inherited from each parent—even if they haven’t taken tests.

Figuring out which DNA came from one parent and which from the other is tricky. Ancestry has pioneered a new technology, SideView™, that does this job using DNA matches, the identical DNA you share with relatives.

All of your matches share one or more segments of identical DNA with you and at least one of your parents. They use your DNA matches to split your DNA into the halves that came from each parent.

They find the segments that connect only to one parent or the other. Then, they separate out the DNA you got from each parent by piecing together the segments that overlap. After they separate your DNA into the parts that correspond with each parent, they calculate an ethnicity estimate on the two halves. From this, they can show your “ethnicity inheritance”—the ethnicity percentages passed down to you from each parent.

You have the option of attending the Barbara J. Brown Family History Seminar in person or virtual this year. The seminar begins on Friday, July 8 and continues on Saturday, July 9, 2022. Please register before Wednesday, July 6, 2022 so that all participants can be accommodated. If you have any questions please contact the Archives of Michigan by email at archives@michigan.gov or by phone at 517-335-2576.

There is a wide variety of speakers and presentations from tours of the Archives of Michigan to occupational records to the census of 1950 and more.

Featured Speaker
Dr. David McDonald has more than 45 years’ research experience and has been a professional genealogist since his school days in suburban Chicago. He has lectured at various national and state genealogy conferences, and has coordinated courses on religions and their records, research in the Northwest Territory and subsequent states, and Advanced Methods. His track on religious records has been taught at both SLIG and GRIP. He has been a featured speaker at NGS, FGS and state and regional conferences across the United States and in the United Kingdom.

A native Midwesterner, Dave has done extensive research in all the states of the old Northwest Territory and adjacent areas of Ontario. He’s conducted extensive research in various churches’ denominational archives and on location. He was the consulting genealogist for the city of Chicago when a historic church-related cemetery had to be removed as part of a years-long public works project and transportation facilities expansion. Later, Dave spent time as a genealogist for Ancestry ProGenealogists, working projects ranging from colonial and early-federal era research projects in Virginia and North Carolina, to mid-19th-century Norwegian immigrant families to Wisconsin, to Swiss-connected families in central Pennsylvania, to early 20th-century Jewish families in the Ohio River valley, among others.

As a learner, Dave has taken courses at SLIG, IGHR and Gen-Fed. He has lectured as part of IGHR’s staff since 2015. He is particularly attracted to research during the federal era, prior to 1850. He has conducted extensive research in England, Germany and Switzerland. Dave’s work has been included in numerous genealogical publications, including the National Genealogical Society Quarterly, and several state societies’ journals. He is a past editor of the Wisconsin State Genealogical Society Newsletter.

Polish Immigration to the U.S. – Taking Advantage of Economic Opportunities presented by Richard Walawender

Saturday, June 18, 2022 at 2:00 pm Eastern Time
Zoom Meeting – pre-registration is required
Visit pgsm.org to register starting June 1
Free and open to the public

As the American economy rapidly expanded with industrialization, companies in several key industrial centers were eager to hire Polish immigrants as laborers and miners. This, in turn, attracted even more Poles to locate in these areas, establishing their own companies to serve Polonia. Many other Polish immigrants brought with them their agricultural talents and set up their own farms. This presentation will explore where these opportunities were and why they attracted Polish immigrants.

Richard Walawender is a partner at a law firm based in Detroit. He established and oversees the firm’s three offices in Poland. Since 1989, when he was asked to represent the Solidarity Trade Union to set up the first commercial bank in Poland, he has represented many U.S. companies doing business in Poland and Polish companies establishing operations in the U.S. He graduated from the University of Michigan, majoring in East European Studies, and then from U of M Law School. He also serves as the Honorary Consul of Poland in Detroit and is chair of the Polish Institute of Culture and Research in Orchard Lake, Michigan. Richard is a member of PGSM.
A few months ago the Grand Rapids Historical Society received an interesting donation. Donations are forwarded to the Grand Rapids History Center at the Main Branch of the Grand Rapids Public Library. The usual donations are postcards, newspaper articles, photos, etc. This recent donation, however, was so interesting that GRHS passed it along to WMGS for help from genealogy sleuths.

This recent acquisition has stirred up a lot of interest. A person from Tennessee found a yearbook in an abandoned building on the shore of the Tennessee River in Meigs County, TN and mailed it to GRHS. There is no obvious reason or answer as to how this yearbook ended up out of state. It is the 1899 yearbook for Central High School (also listed as Grand Rapids High School) and it belonged to a girl named Daisy Margaret Sokop. A quick look on Ancestry showed that Daisy was the daughter of Frank and Clara Sokop. Daisy had two brothers, Clarence and Charles. Her father was from Germany and her mother was from Wisconsin. In 1900, when Daisy was 20 years old, she was living with her family on Mt. Vernon St. and they had a servant. Her father Frank was an iron merchant.

In the 1910 census Daisy was working as an “office girl” in an “iron office”, presumably with her father. In the next two censuses (1920 and 1930) she is living with her parents. By the 1940 census she is a bookkeeper and she owns her home. Daisy Sokop died in 1961 and is buried in Oakhill Cemetery. When she died, she was the owner of a roofing company started by her father. It appears that she spent her life in Grand Rapids so it is mysterious that her yearbook ended up in Tennessee.

Fortunately this treasure has made its way back to Grand Rapids. Daisy saved a number of mementos in her yearbook from school newspaper articles about a rivalry between the juniors and seniors (some things never change!) to school election ephemera to a copy of the junior class song (among many other items). There are some fascinating ads in this yearbook for such things as flour, ocean liner tickets, breweries, ice, furniture, coal and more. Here are a few pictures from this yearbook. If anyone knows the Sokop family, please contact WMGS. Otherwise this yearbook will be donated to the library.
The WMGS Writers Group IS meeting during the summer. We meet in-person at 1:30 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church, 1100 Lake Dr. SE, Grand Rapids or you can attend using Zoom:
